

Note To Teacher: Page one is yours to read. Give page two to the students in your class. Read each one and have students volunteer the color word that fits the rhyme. Then the class may color in the correct picture on their page. When you are finished reading each little rhyme, you can evaluate how well your students were listening by being sure they colored the items the correct. Page three is for older students. They can write in the color words and then color the picture.
